

Fall 2006 Program Guide

From the General Manager of WRUW ...

Hello Cleveland!

It's the fall, and that means a lot of things. The leaves are changing, the weather's changing, and WRUW's programming schedule is also changing. We here at WRUW know better than to go against Mother Nature. Besides, we're a non-commercial college-based radio station, and since we've got so many college kids back from the summer, we decided to put some of them on the air.

Actually, things are a little less willy-nilly than that. We here at WRUW are dedicated to bringing you a wide variety of music and public affairs programming, and we change things around every 4 months or so to keep that variety fresh. This semester we have plenty of old favorites returning, as well as some great new shows. So if you like ska, polka, reggae, indie, folk, news, or just about anything else that's ever been committed to an audio recording, tune your dial to 91.1 FM and have a listen.

WRUW is all about community as well as great programming. Maybe you weren't lucky enough to make it to our 25th Annual Studio-A-Rama, a free concert held right outside of our studios on the Case campus, featuring several local acts. You missed out, but there's still hope if you want to hear music from Cleveland-area bands. Our programmers play local music all the time, and you can tune in to Live from Cleveland (10-11 PM, Thursdays) every week to catch different local acts play live in our studio. And our public affairs shows feature news and opinions brought to you from people right here in Cleveland.

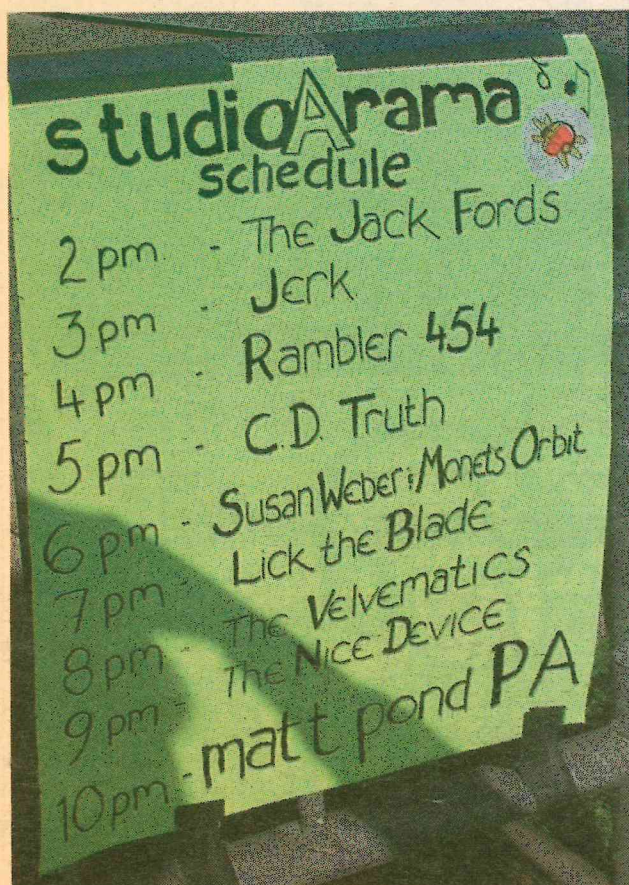

I guess what I'm trying to say is, WRUW loves you, Cleveland. You wouldn't want to leave that sort of sentiment unrequited, would you?

Happy listening,

Jay Williams
